THE RACE OF LIFE.

[WRITTEN FOR THE NEWS.]

Who thinks to run the race of life, In his own strength and power, He runs but to an open grave, In an unlooked for hour.

And he who trusts his own wisdom To plan life's future ways, Is doomed to meet naught but defeat; Sorrow must end his days.

Trust thou to God to give thee help, According to thy day. Ask thou for wisdom from on high, To guide thee on thy way.

MILES SAUNDERS.

Children Married.

Myrtle Miller, fourteen years of age, and Jonas Robbins, seventeen years old, were married last week at the residence of John Allen, the bride's uncle, at Lee City. Rev. Charles Robbins, the father of the groom, performed the ceremony.

Lively Fight at Lee City.

Hendricks Elam and two of the Jacobs boys became involved in a difficulty over a trade at Lee City. Elam was armed with a revolver and the Jacobs with knives. Elam opened fire and wounded one of the Jacobs in the left side, the other one took shelter in a nearby store. Elam was placed under arrest.

Boy Accidentally Killed.

An accident occurred near Stanton last week resulting in the death of Russell Welch, a ten-year-old boy. He and his brother were out hunting and were climbing a hill. Russell was in front and his brother, Hal, walking behind, carrying a gun. Hal slipped and fell and in some way the gun was discharged. The contents entered Russell's left leg and he fell, bleeding to death before medical aid could be reached.

The Wedding Anniversary.

The celebration of wedding anniversaries before the fifth is rare, although the first and second are respectively cotton and paper. The list follows:

Fifth year—Wooden.
Tenth year—Tin.
Fifteenth year—Crystal.
Twentieth year—China.
Twenty-fifth year—Silver.
Thirtieth year—Pearl.
Fortieth year—Ruby.
Fiftieth year—Golden.
Sixtieth year—Diamond.

Still Raided in Powell County.

Last Friday night Deputy Collector Insko, of Carlisle, and a posse made a raid on a moonshine still on Cane creek, Powell county, and captured William Dunn while at work in the still. They then destroyed a sixty-gallon copper, 145 gallons of singlings and 450 gallons of beer, and burned the still house. At daylight they arrested Clay Chambers at his home. He escaped and ran a mile and was overtaken. Both men were taken to Mt. Sterling and placed in jail.

Don't Snub Shabby Clothes.

Don't snub a boy because he wears shabby clothes. Edison, the inventor of the telephone, wore a pair of linen breeches when he first entered Boston, in the dead of winter. Don't snub a boy because his home is plain and unpretending. Abraham Lincoln's early home was in a log cabin. Don't snub a boy because of the ignorance of his parents. Shakespeare, the world's greatest poet, was the son of a man who was not able to write his own name. Don't snub a boy because he chooses a humble trade. The author of "Pilgrim's Progress" was a tinker. Don't snub anybody. Not only because some day he may outstrip you in the race of life, but because it is neither kind, nor right, nor christian like.

Pleasant and Harmless.

Don't drug the stomach to cure a cough. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the mucus, draws the inflammation out of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes, heats, soothes and cures. A quick cure for Croup and Whooping Cough. One Minute Cough Cure relieves a cough in one minute because it acts first on the mucous membrane right where the cough troubles—in the throat or deep-seated on the lungs. Sold by M. S. Crain.

Wolfe County Man Missing.

Mack Whisman, a prominent farmer living on Devil's Creek, in Wolfe county, left his home some days ago, telling his family that he was going to Campton to buy some clothing and that he never expected to see them again. He was in Campton and that was the last seen or heard of him by his family, who say that he had been sick for some time and that they fear that his mind has become unbalanced. He had considerable money with him when he left home.

And the Fire Was Out.

A preacher in Indiana is responsible for this: "I had occasion at one time to hold a meeting near Zionsville. The choir was composed of two old maids of a Jolly Thirty Club, and two old bachelors. When the chorus to the official hymn reached the two old maids sang 'Unto us a child was born,' and the old bachelors followed up with 'W-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l, w-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l.' Then some wag near the door had to sneaker. The choir quit abruptly and the service came to an end."

Trees and Youth.

Trees grow very much as boys and girls grow, from something small and helpless into something large and strong—from small seeds or stones into great towers of wide-spreading green branches. Just as boys and girls need plenty of good, pure blood in order to grow big and strong, so the trees need it, too, only their blood is called sap. Trees take a long nap in winter, but in February they show signs of waking up. The sap stirs, and then something begins to grow. If you watch the tree carefully all through the year you will find what a beautiful barometer it is; how it will tell you, in tree language, that spring is coming. The dead-looking trees of winter suddenly change color, little hard buds appear, and with every rain and sunbeam these buds swell and swell until finally with the blossoms spring begins.

Powers' Trial.

The Court of Appeals last Saturday overruled the Commonwealth's petition for a rehearing in the Caleb Powers case which was filed by the Commonwealth. This means that the fourth trial of Powers can take place at the May term of the Scott Circuit Court if both sides are ready. The Court of Appeals several months ago, it will be recalled, reversed a judgment of the Scott Circuit Court sentencing Powers to be hanged, and ordered a new trial. Judge Barker delivered the opinion. After the opening of the January term, when Judge Burnam retired and Judge Cantrill took his place, a petition for rehearing was filed by Attorney General Hays representing the Commonwealth. This petition has been pending since early in January last. Powers' case is expected to be called at the May term of the Scott Circuit Court.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember that, after marriage many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their detentions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." The Jackson Drug Co., sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

The Woman's Home Companion for April is the Easter number, and well befits the season. A leading article, "Most picturesque of Easter Celebrations," describes an Easter in Jerusalem. The second in the series of articles on food-adulteration comes in relating "How the Baby Pays the Tax." The fiction is unusually good—"The King of Diamonds," by Louis Freary, producing new and fascinating complications, and in the second installment of "Martha and Her American Kitchen." Marion Harland enlisting our interest still further in the work of a newly married couple—and the short stories are capital. Fads and Frills of Fashion" tell, of course, about Easter hats and gowns. "Nature-Study," Mrs. Sangster's helpful talk, Mrs. Richardson's practical advice to "The Girl Who Earns Her Own Living," and other regular departments, are as full of interest as ever. Published by The Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield Ohio; one dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

See S. D. Flenor for bargains in clocks. A fine 8 day mantle clock for $1.00. Others sell the same clock for $2.50.

SPRING SPRAYING.

Do Not Let the San Jose and Other Scales Get Ahead of You.
By J. J. BARTON.

If San Jose scale has not yet invaded your neighborhood, trust in a kind providence and make a move, good and hard, to keep it out. If it is already there, use the same measures, but in a more superlative degree. If such a thing there can be. The San Jose scale, or louse, for it is the latter, under the scale, that does the mischief, is a sort of little Jap in the world of insect pests. Many bigger ones there are, but few more successful.

How to Know the Scale.

The scale is most easily recognized in midsummer, when it imparts a sort of purplish tinge to the bark of the tree, but it is then very firmly entrenched and difficult to fight. Take a microscope to your apple, pear, peach and plum trees now, just as soon as you can, especially if they look a bit rough or scurfy or seemed in any way unhealthy last season.

A tree when badly infested with the San Jose scale presents a somewhat grayish appearance, as if it were coated with ashes, but the ordinary observers would hardly notice this or realize its significance. By carefully scraping the bark with a knife blade little scales of various sizes may be found, beneath which are the soft, jellylike orange colored insects.

What Shall We Do With It?

Spraying in late winter or early spring before the buds open is the accepted remedy. Various solutions are used, but the boiled lime, salt and sulphur mixture is perhaps still the cheapest and safest for the tree.

Owing to the trouble of preparing that wash, however, the Geneva (N. Y.) station devised a self-bubbling mixture that has met with much favor. The formula is as follows: Lime, 30 pounds; sulphur, 15 pounds; caustic soda, 6 pounds; water, 50 gallons.

The sulphur is made into a thin paste with boiling water and poured over and well distributed through the line. Additional water is used as needed to keep the lime-sulphur material in a rather stiff paste. As soon as the line is slaked the full amount of caustic soda is added and stirred until boiling ceases. Enough water is then poured in to make fifty gallons of the wash.

Attacked By a Mob.

and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welch, of Takonah, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c. at The Jackson Drug Co.

The Toulouse Goose.

The Toulouse goose, Wonderful Joe, reproduced from American Agriculturist, was imported by W. A. Wilder in 1901. He is a very massive and powerfully built bird, very long, deep, heavy body and will weigh about twenty-seven pounds in show condition, his color and facing being the most even even of his kind. As a breeder he is very active. Wonderful Joe is king of the goose kind in America if not England.

One of the Valuable Farm Products.

The manure from animals fed on cotton seed or its products is of the very highest value. Cotton seed and cottonseed meal are about the only feeds that are ever used directly as fertilizers and that are worth their market price for this purpose.

The Real Awfulness.

It is an awful fact that immigration into the United States is again running larger than ever, and the real awfulness lies in the large proportion of these immigrants who are of undesirable quality, says American Agriculture.

By the Tonic Route.

The pills that act as a tonic, and not as a drastic purge, are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. They cure Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, etc. Early Risers are small, easy to take and easy to act—a safe pill. Mack Hamilton, hotel clerk at Valley City, N. D., says: "Two bottles cured me of chronic constipation." Sold by M. S. Crain.

We have added new faces of type to our Job Department and are now prepared to do printing of every description. A neat job and a fair price always guaranteed. Try us if you want to be pleased.

For Her Majesty the Hen.
Considerable experience has taught me that all nest boxes for laying or hatching purposes should be movable, says an Ohio Farmer correspondent. When a hen becomes broody and I wish to set her I place the eggs under her and that evening move her, box and all, to the brooder house, where three sitting hens are given the use of one apartment. There are no interlopers to lay by them and break the eggs. They can get out whenever they feel like it for food and drink, which are kept in all the apartments.

Two cleats are nailed to the back of the box and a hole bored in each cleat, by means of which the box is hung on two stout nails driven in the side of the building. It is well to have these nails all the same distance apart, so that boxes are interchangeable and can be placed anywhere. The nails should be tenpenny and driven with the heads projecting one and a half inches and sloping upward, so as to hold the boxes firmly.

An Indisputable SAFE INVESTMENT

The material progress which our country is now, and has been making for the past decade of years, naturally brings to the surface numerous schemes of the "get-rich-quick" character that benefit only the promoters of such, at the expense of innocent investors.

In this age of genuine prosperity with every legitimate business booming, wages high, work in abundance, giving employment to all willing to earn, and products of the farm bringing best prices; there is little or no excuse for one not to join the army of money-makers.

The first and safest investment to make is to become a reader of the CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, the greatest and most reliable newspaper in the United States. With the facts, truth and information gleaned from its columns, one may become well qualified to reach out and secure his share of profit that always accrues from investments intelligently made.

The WEEKLY ENQUIRER costs but one dollar for one year's term. The SUNDAY ENQUIRER costs you two dollars for a year. The DAILY ENQUIRER (7 issues a week) you get for fourteen dollars a year.

Without the aid of a first-class newspaper, success in any enterprise becomes problematical. For ten cents you can secure a sample copy of each, DAILY, SUNDAY AND WEEKLY ENQUIRER. Address,
Enquirer Company,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

California.
California entertains every year a host of visitors. By reason of this, she has gained a great reputation for hospitality. California wants you to visit her this spring. The Rock Island System would like to have you try its up-to-date service from Chicago or St. Louis to the Golden State. As a special inducement greatly reduced rates are offered, daily, March 1 to May 15. Ask your home agent or write to John Sebastian, Passenger Traffic Manager, Rock Island System, Chicago.

Poultry House Floors.
The floor of any poultry house should always be slightly higher than the surroundings, says A. V. Meersch in Western Poultry Journal. This can be obtained by filling in with soil until the floor is raised sufficiently. If boarded floors are used the surface should be kept covered with about half an inch of silted material, which should be renewed at least once a week in order to keep the floor clean and dry.

Lake Finding Money.
Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At The Jackson Drug Co.; 50c. and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

It looks so nice to see a gang of young men come to church or a singing and shoot and stagger about. Luckily, the drunken ones last Sunday did not belong to our vicinity, and we would like to say a word for their benefit. You had best come sober from this time on or you may be numbered with J. H. Hammon's boarders before many moons.

Very little business was done.

BIRTHS.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hurst, on March 24th, a boy. He tipped the beam at 10½ lb.

Liquor Petition Filed.

A petition was filed last Monday before Breck Combs, acting Justice of the Peace and acting Judge, signed by what is claimed to be twenty-five per cent. of the legal voters of the town of Jackson, preparatory to asking to have an election called to ascertain whether license shall be granted for the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in the town of Jackson. Further action on the petition to be taken later.

Breck Combs Succeeds Edwards.

Breck Combs was commissioned by Gov. Beckham as Justice of the Peace to succeed the late J. W. Edwards, deceased. His appointment came as a surprise to the people here, as the law requires that all vacancies in the office of Justice of the Peace shall be filled by order of the county court. No order of appointment had been made out. Acting Judge William Griffith allowed him to execute bond on last Monday, and he is now acting as Justice of the Peace for this district.

New Trial for Jett.

The Court of Appeals on last Saturday reversed the case of Curtis Jett vs. the Commonwealth. This is the case in which he was given the death sentence for the murder of James Cockrill. Jett is now in the penitentiary serving a life sentence for the murder of J. B. Marcum. The Court reversed on the grounds, first, that the testimony of J. L. McCoy as to what John Patrick said about Jett at the time of the shooting of Cockrill was incompetent and prejudicial to the rights of Jett; second, that the lower court erred in not granting Jett a continuance under the peculiar circumstances existing in Harrison county when the case was called for trial.

All Fool's Day.

Tomorrow, April 1st, will be a day of fun, jokes and pranks, enjoyed alike by old and young. Many a thoughtless one will be trapped and greeted with "April Fool." It will be the small boy's delight to throw before the traveler's eye a package or a pocket-book to which is attached a string, and just as the finder is about to pick up the treasure it disappears, and again "April Fool" is heard amid shouts of laughter. The telephone will play an important part in the fun of the day and every conceivable means of fooling the people will be used. So let all enter into the harmless spirit of the day and let no one get offended at the sport.

Prof. Saxon Is "It."

A large audience greeted Prof. Edward Saxon, of the Central University, at the College Chapel last Friday night. Prof. Saxon is one of the best speakers and most successful impersonators that ever appeared before a Jackson audience. Beginning with the masterpiece of Mark Twain, "The Inter-view," for nearly two hours he held the audience almost entranced with choice selections most skillfully rendered. His readings were interspersed by a number of songs by Miss Ray, of the music department; Miss Reese, of the college faculty, and Mrs. Gorton, the first one being a trio. Prof. Saxon was accompanied by Dr. L. H. Blanton, Vice President of Central University.

SPRINGTIME.

And now the pink arbutus
Is smiling from the sod,
And the happy birds are singing
Their hymns of praise to God.

The gentle breeze is blowing,
The sky is bright and blue:
All nature is so joyful
Then why not me and you?

E. T. P.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gibson entertained on Tuesday evening, March 28th, with a delightful tea in honor of Mrs. Gibson's mother, Mrs. Bee, from Toronto, Canada. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fletcher, of Jackson; Miss Jessie Warren, of Toronto; Miss Margaret Daviess, of Georgetown, Ky., and Mrs. Agnes Patterson, of Cynthia, Ky. A delightful evening was spent, with music by the hostess and an interesting conversation by the host. After spending the evening so pleasantly, all were loathe to leave. May Mrs. Bee be spared to enjoy the blessings of life for many years.

The Hargis Cases.

Judge Parker, of the Fayette Circuit Court, rendered his opinion on the motion of the Hargises and Callahan for bail in the Fayette Circuit Court on last Monday morning, holding James Hargis, Elbert Hargis and Ed Callahan without bail, and allowing Alex Hargis bail in the sum of $15,000, which he gave with J. F. Van-Deren, John Flood, Gus Straus and Joseph Skain as bondsmen. The trial was set for next Tuesday by agreement of the attorneys on both sides. Judge Parker in rendering his decision said:

"Gentlemen, in the matter of bail in the Hargis case I have made as thorough consideration of the question as it is possible for me to do. As to the law it seems to me to be this, that it is a capital charge, that is, a charge which the penalty may be capital punishment if nothing but the indictment exists the law presumes that the crime was committed by those charged with it and bail is not allowed.

"In a number of cases it has been held that in such proceedings the defense must introduce its testimony first. In this case I held that the burden of proof was on the Commonwealth and I think this case was heard properly. "There are some facts in this matter about which there is no dispute. I do not desire to sum up this testimony and want nothing that I may say at this time to be construed hereafter when these cases are called for trial as an expression of the guilt or innocence of the defendants.

"So far as the testimony in this case and in the Britton case is concerned the killing of Cockrill was without provocation. It was done openly, in day light in the streets of Jackson. There can be no doubt about the nature of the crime. The indictment of the grand jury of itself ought to have great weight with the judge in matter of bail, but greater weight should be given the testimony. There is no claim on the part of the Commonwealth that any one of the defendants actually fired the shots, so the matter goes as to whether they were present when the shots were fired assisting and abetting, or whether they were accessories before the fact. In either event if they are guilty they are equally guilty with those who did actually fire the shots.

"One thing is apparent in my mind, and that is that James Cockrill was in Jackson for one day only when he was shot and there is no evidence of any kind tending to show that the defendants had any knowledge that he intended coming to Jackson. A. H. Hargis was not in Jackson the day of the shooting and I have made up my mind that A. H. Hargis is entitled to bail, and without summing up the evidence I will refuse bail to the other three defendants.

"This case is of such importance that the Court ought to subordinate all other cases to this one. Its importance does not arise from the nature or seriousness of the crime charged or the prominence of those accused, but because of the serious charges made against the civil government of Breathitt county. The Court of Appeals has held that this court has jurisdiction of these cases and I am determined to give the case an immediate trial."

THE LONG LOOKED FOR TIDE HAS COME!

CHAPTER II.

WE heard no more of the voices. Uncle Eb had brought an armful of wood and some water in the teapot while I was sleeping. As soon as the rain had passed he stood listening awhile and shortly opened his knife and made a little clearing in the corn by cutting a few hills.

"We've got to do it," he said, "or we can't take any comfort, an' the man to me I could have all the corn I wanted."

"Did you see him, Uncle Eb?" I remember asking.

"Yes," he answered, whistling in the dark; "I saw him when I went out for the water, an' it was he to me they were after us."

He took a look at the sky after awhile and, remarking that he guessed they couldn't see his smoke now, began to kindle the fire. As it burned up he stuck two crotches and hung his teapot on a stick that lay in them so it took the heat of the flame, as I had seen him do in the morning. Our groans in the corn were shortly as cheerful as any room in a palace, and our fire sent its light into the long aisles that opened opposite, and nobody could see the warm glow of it but ourselves.

"We'll hev our supper," said Uncle Eb as he opened a paper and spread out the eggs and bread and butter and crackers. "We'll hev our supper, an' by an' by when every one's a-bed we'll make tracks in the dirt, I can tell ye."

Our supper over, Uncle Eb let me look at his tobacco box, a shiny thing of German silver that always seemed to snap out a quick farewell to me before it dived into his pocket. He was very cheerful and communicative and joked a good deal as we lay there waiting in the frelight. I got some further acquaintance with the swift, learning, among other things, that it had no appetite for the pure in heart.

"Why not?" I inquired.

"Well," said Uncle Eb, "it's like this—the madder the boy the sweeter the meal."

He sang an old song as he sat by the fire, with a whistled interlude between lines, and the swing of it even now carries me back to that far day in the fields. I lay with my head in his lap while he was singing.

I went asleep after awhile in spite of all, right in the middle of a story. The droning voice of Uncle Eb and the feel of his hand upon my forehead called me back, blinking, once or twice, but not for long. The fire was gone down to a few embers when Uncle Eb woke me and the groto was lit only by a sprinkle of moonlight from above.

"Mos' 12 o'clock," he whispered. "Better be off."

The basket was on his back, and he was all ready. I followed him through the long aisle of corn, clinging to the tail of his coat. The golden lantern of the moon hung near the zenith, and when we came out in the open we could see into the far fields. I climbed into my basket at the wall, and as Uncle Eb carried me over the brook, stopping on a flat rock midway to take a drink, I could see the sky in the water, and it seemed as if a misstep would have tumbled me into the moon.

"Heard the crickets holler," said Uncle Eb as he followed the bank up into the open pasture.

"What makes 'em holler?" I asked.

"Oh, they're jes' fillin' their saws an' thinkin'. Mebbe tellin' o' what's happened 'em. Been a hard day fer them little folks. Terrible flood in the country. Every one on 'em had 't git up a stepple quick 's he could 'r be drowned. They hev their troubles an' they talk 'bout 'em too."

"What do they file their saws for?" I inquired.

"Well, ye know," said he, "where they live the timber's thick an' they hev hard work clearin' t' mek a home."

I was getting too sleepy for further talk. He made his way from field to field, stopping sometimes to look off at the distant mountains and then at the sky or to whack the dry stalks of unbleached with his cane. I remember he let down some bars after a long walk and stepped into a smooth road. He stood resting a little while, his basket on the top bar, and then the moon that I had been watching went down behind the broad rim of his hat and I fell into utter forgetfulness. My eyes opened on a lovely scene at daylight. Uncle Eb had laid me on a mossy knoll in a bit of timber and through an opening right in front of us I could see a broad level of shining water, and the great green mountain on the farther shore seemed to be up to its belly in the sea.

"Hello there!" said Uncle Eb. "Here we are at Lake Champlain."

I could hear the fire crackling and smell the odor of steaming tea.

"Ye dropped round like a fish in that basket," said Uncle Eb. "Guess ye must 'a' been dreamin' o' bears. Jumped so ye scared me. Didn't know but I had a will'nt on my shoulders."

Uncle Eb had taken a fish line out of his pocket and was tying it to a rude pole that he had cut and trimmed with his jackknife.

"I've found some crawfish here," he said, "an' I'm goin' t' try fer a bite on the p'nt o' rocks there."

"Goin' t' git some fish, Uncle Eb?" I inquired.

"Wouldn't say t' I was er wouldn't say t' I wasn't," he answered. "Jes' go in t' try."

Uncle Eb was always careful not to commit himself on a doubtful point. He had fixed his hook and sinker in a moment, and then we went out on a rocky point near by and threw off into the deep water. Suddenly Uncle Eb gave a jerk that brought a good one out of him and then let his hook go down again, his hands trembling, his face severe.

"By mighty! Uncle Eb," he muttered to himself, "I thought we hed him that time."

He jerked again presently, and then

I could see a tug on the line that made me jump. A big fish came thrashing into the air in a minute. He tried to swing it ashore, but the pole bent, and the fish got a fresh hold of the water and took the end of the pole under. Uncle Eb gave it a lift then that brought it ashore, and a good bit of water with it. I remember how the fish slapped me with its wet tail and sprinkled my face shaking itself between my boots. It was a big bass, and in a little while we had three of them. Uncle Eb dressed them and laid them over the fire on a gridiron of green birch, salting them as they cooked. I remember they went with a fine relish, and the last of our eggs and bread and butter went with them.

Our breakfast over, Uncle Eb made me promise to stay with Fred and the man who could row us across. In about an hour I heard a boat coming, and the dog and I went out on the point of rocks, where we saw Uncle Eb and another man heading for us, half over the cove. The bow bumped the rocks beneath us in a minute. Then the stranger dropped his oars and stood staring at me and the dog.

"Say, mister," said he presently, "can't go no further. There's a reward offered for you an' t' boy."

Uncle Eb called him aside and was talking to him a long time.

I never knew what was said, but they came at last and took us into the boat, and the stranger was very friendly.

When we had come near the landing on the "York state" side, I remember he gave us our bearings.

"Keep t' the woods," he said, "till you're out o' harm's way. Don't go near the stage road fer awhile. Ye'll find a store a little way up the mountain. Git yer provisions there, an' about eighty rod further ye'll strike the trail. It'll take ye over the mountain north w' t' Paradise road. Then take the w' straight west."

I would not have remembered it so well but for the fact that Uncle Eb wrote it all down in his account book, and that has helped me over many a slippery place in my memory of those events. At the store we got some crackers and cheese, tea and coffee, dried beef and herring, a bit of honey and a loaf of bread that was sliced and buttered before it was done up. We were off in the woods by 9 o'clock, according to Uncle Eb's diary, and I remember the trail led us into thick brush, where I had to get out and walk a long way. It was smooth underfoot, however, and at noon we came to a slash in the timber full of briars that were all aglow with big blackberries. We filled our hats with them, and Uncle Eb found a spring, beside which we built a fire and had a memorable meal that made me glad of my hunger.

Then we spread the oilcloth and lay down for another sleep. We could see the glow of the setting sun through the tree tops when we woke and began our packing.

"We'll hev t' hurry," said Uncle Eb, "we'll never git out o' the woods 'till t' 8 'bout six mile er more t' Paradise road, es I mek it. Come, yer slower'n a toad in a tar barrel."

We hurried off on the trail, and I remember Fred looked very crestfallen with two big packages tied to his collar. He delayed a bit by trying to shake them off, but Uncle Eb gave him a sharp word or two and then he walked along very thoughtfully. Uncle Eb was a little out of patience that evening, and I thought he bore down too harshly in his rebuke of the old dog.

"You shifless cuss," he said to him, "ye'd jes' dew nothin' but chase squirrels an' let me break my back t' carry yer dinner."

He covered ourselves with the shawl, Uncle Eb lay on one side of me and Fred on the other, so I felt secure indeed. The night had many voices there in the deep wood. Away in the distance I could hear a strange, wild cry, and I asked what it was, and Uncle Eb whispered back, "S' a loon." Down the side of the mountain a shrill bark rang in the timber, and that was a fox, according to my patient oracle. When we heard the crash and thunder of a falling tree and a murmur that followed in the wake of the last echo. "Big tree fallin'," said Uncle Eb as he lay gasping. "It has t' break a way t' the ground, an' it must hurt. Did ye notice how the woods tremble? If we was up above them we could see the hole the tree hed made. Jes' like an open grave till the others hev filled it with their tops."

My ears had gone deaf with drowsiness when a quick stir in the body of Uncle Eb brought me back to my senses. He was up on his elbow listening, and the freight had sunk to a glimmer. Fred lay shivering and growling beside me. I could hear no other sound.

"Be still," said Uncle Eb as he boxed the dog's ears. Then he rose and began to stir the fire and lay on more wood. As the flame leaped and threw its light into the tree tops a shrill cry like the scream of a frightened woman, only louder and more terrible to hear, brought me to my feet crying. I knew the source of it was near us and ran to Uncle Eb in a fearful panic.

"Hush, boy," said he as it died away and went echoing in the far forest. "It'll take care o' you. Don't be scared. He's more 'fraid uv us than we are o' him. He's makin' off now."

We heard then a great crackling of dead brush on the mountain above us. It grew fainter as we listened. In a little while the woods were silent.

"It's the man o' the woods," said Uncle Eb. "Es out takin' a walk."

"Will he hurt folks?" I inquired.

"Tow," he answered. "Jes' as harmless as a kitten."
